ADDITIONAL IMPORTANT FACTS TO TAKE NOTE OF:

- A. Should a firearm not be declared on arrival and a temporary import permit not issued, you will face severe penalties and possible arrest if detected.
- B. Ensure that your firearms arrive on the same flight as you do. Contact all airline company/ies for the different sectors of your flight before making reservations, for their regulations regarding transport of firearms and ammunition.
Carriage of ammunition:
Certain airlines require the ammo to be packed in a separate locked container.
We strongly recommend that ammunition be packed in a lockable case which can be checked in with the firearm(s) to avoid possible delays during checked baggage screening.
Ammunition should not be packed in checked baggage or in the gun case.
- C. Your firearm/s may only be signed for by yourself.
It will not be released to any other person.
In the event of it arriving on a separate flight, the firearm/s will be held by the SAPS until such time as you claim ownership in person.
- D. The temporary import permit serves as your firearm license in South Africa. It enables you to buy ammunition in South Africa for the calibers noted on the permit.
- E. You must have the temporary import permit on your person at all times while you are in possession of your firearms.
- F. The firearm/s MUST be locked in a firearm safe when you are not using it.
- G. We recommend that you allow at least 3 hours between landing and your connecting flight.
- H. In-Transit Permits are required for any person spending the night in South Africa while in-transit to a third country. The same pre-requisites apply as to obtain the normal Temporary Import permit. It is your responsibility to check with your airline company on departure if your luggage and firearm(s) will be checked through to your final destination, when you are connecting to a third country on the same day.
- I. Please see the Terms & Conditions at the end of this document.
